SURPLUS STOCK AT DEPRESSION PRICES

This price list was mailed from Florida, where my work takes me from November until May. In my garden here there are growing about two hundred varieties of Iris. By successive plantings I have had blossoms during January, February, March, and April. The seedlings which shot up almost over night from seed planted in November will almost certainly bloom in Michigan in September.

I am always anxious to add Irises of outstanding merit to my collection, and I shall be delighted to hear from other Iris fans about new varieties they have developed. Last year I purchased fifteen hundred dollars worth of new sorts, many in larger quantity than I need for my study collection; therefore I am listing some of them, and at remarkably low prices. Last summer my surplus stock of a number of fine varieties was exhausted shortly after my list was mailed, and many Iris lovers were disappointed because I could not fill their orders. Please order early.

GUARANTEE: The only guarantee I make with regard to the rhizomes sent out from my garden is that they will be true to name and reach you in good condition.

RHIZOMES: Although my prices are very low, the rhizomes will be vigorous and of blooming size.

TRANSPORTATION: Prepaid on orders of two dollars or more. Orders amounting to less than this amount will be sent express collect unless stamps sufficient to cover parcel post charges accompany orders, which will be from two to four cents a rhizome, depending on the distance the flowers are shipped. Extra stamps will be returned.

TERMS: Cash with order. A 25 per cent deposit will be sufficient to hold Irises for future shipment. If the balance is not paid, rhizomes equal in value to the amount of the deposit will be sent. Remittances may be made by Money Order, registered mail, bank draft or check.

Here are a few varieties which were almost overlooked:
